

February 15, 2023

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact: Crystal Borup
(360) 600-2538
crystalborup@icloud.com
teton-yoga-festival.com

FESTIVAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Teton Yoga Festival, Live in Union

Victor, ID — Crystal Borup and Sea Marie Biladeau announce the launch of the Teton Yoga Festival, scheduled for September 8th-10th, in Teton Valley, ID. A Leaders of Unity ticket option will kick off the festival weekend on September 7th, with a farm to table dinner featuring local organic farms, a regional chef, and guest speakers, along with live music.

The 3-day festival will have multiple classes and workshops to choose from, as well as inspiring lectures, intimate talks, music and dance. Onsite there will be a pop up restaurant and food vendors, all sourcing from local organic farms, as well as an outdoor healing sanctuary offering massage and other wellness services. Select market vendors will be selling goods and services that contribute to sustainability and the quality of life.

The Teton Yoga Festival is paving the way for the yoga community, inspiring deeper individual and community experiences that ripple out into the world. The festival is intended to be an intimate retreat, with a mission to honor the true nature of yoga, which is union. Teachers, presenters, and vendors, are being selected with the intention to bring about a deep conscious experience of union. Union with our planet, each other, and the source that connects us all.

Crystal and Sea Marie are seeking volunteers, sponsors, partners, and more. There are many opportunities to participate in the festival. “I am so deeply touched by the community's support and involvement. So many people believe in our mission and want to help make the festival a success. We are so grateful,” says Biladeau.

The festival is committed to making a local and global impact and will be partnering with two non profit organizations. A portion of proceeds from the festival will be donated to Mountain Roots Education, a local nonprofit that focuses on bringing gardens and greenhouses into our local schools, and educating about sustainable living. "When a child has the experience of growing and eating their own food, it makes an impact and stays with them forever," says Hayes Swinney, Executive Director of Mountain Roots Education.

The festival will be held at the Moose Creek Ranch in Victor, ID. Moose Creek Ranch provides resort style comfort and treatment. “It is the perfect location for the festival as it provides an opportunity for an intimate experience while being immersed in nature,” says Borup.

Tickets are now on sale for Teton Yoga Festival through the website: teton-yoga-festival.com. More information about Moose Creek Ranch can be found here: moosecreekranch.com. To learn more about opportunities on how you can support the festival, email: info@teton-yoga-festival.com. Crystal and Sea Marie are both available for interviews about the festival and can be reached by email at crystalborup@icloud.com, or by phone at (360) 600-2538. For digital images, please inquire.

###